Lying Felon "Chelsea" Manning runs for US Senate

"Chelsea Manning, a transgender former Army intelligence analyst convicted of leaking classified documents, has filed to run for the U.S. Senate," reports Fox News.

"The Washington Post first reported Saturday that Manning has filed to run in Maryland for the seat of Democratic Sen. Ben Cardin.

"The Federal Election Commission website shows a Jan. 11 filing for 'Chelsea Manning for U.S. Senate' with the party affiliation registered as Democrat -- suggesting a primary challenge for Cardin.

"Manning, then known as Bradley Manning, was arrested in 2010 and convicted in 2013 of leaking a trove of sensitive documents to WikiLeaks. Manning's sentence was controversially commuted by President Barack Obama in 2017 after Manning had served seven years of a 35-year sentence.

"Since leaving prison, Manning has become known for controversial tweets, often accompanied with a series of emojis and the hashtag #WeGotThis. Last week, Manning tweeted out the message 'f---k the police' on Law Enforcement Appreciation Day, along with the hashtag #DisarmThePolice

"Manning has also referred to Immigration and Customs Enforcement as 'literally the new gestapo.'"

[Dr. Chaps' comment: Bradley manning should be ineligible to run, for four reasons: 1) He's a convicted felon (commuted not pardoned) and he's probably ineligible to vote, much less run. 2) He's using a false name when his parents called him Bradley, not Chelsea, and 3) He's a traitor and should be convicted of treason for disclosing state secrets. 4) Finally he's a lying man pretending to be a woman. Is anybody buying this publicity stunt? I'm not.]

Harvard hires then Fires traitor "Chelsea" Manning

Harvard University hired the traitor "Chelsea" Manning as a visiting fellow, but repented and promptly fired him after two high profile CIA members boycotted.

"Michael Morell, former deputy director and acting director of the CIA, is stepping down as a senior fellow at Harvard University after the school extended a fellowship to Chelsea Manning, the soldier convicted of leaking classified information to Wikileaks," reports CBS.

"Morell, a CBS News senior national security contributor, wrote in a letter to Doug Elmendorf, dean of Harvard's Kennedy School of Government, that he can't remain at an organization 'that honors a convicted felon and leaker of classified information, Ms. Chelsea Manning.'

"The Harvard Institute of Politics, part of the Kennedy School, named Manning a visiting fellow for the academic year on Wednesday. Manning is the first transgender individual to be awarded the prestigious post, joining a class of fellows that includes Sean Spicer, Robby Mook, Mika Brzezinski and others.

"Manning was arrested in 2010 for leaking classified information to Wikileaks, and sentenced to 35 years in prison in 2013. [She] served seven years until her sentence was commuted by President Obama at the end of his term.

"The Kennedy School's decision will assist Ms. Manning in her long-standing effort to legitimize the criminal path that she took to prominence, an attempt that may encourage others to leak classified information as well,' Morell wrote. 'I have an obligation to my conscience -- and I believe to the country -- to stand up against any efforts to justify leaks of sensitive national security information.'

"Morell said he had a duty to resign in protest 'to make the fundamental point that leaking classified information is disgraceful and damaging to our nation.'

"He added that 'it is important to note that I fully support Ms. Manning's rights as a transgender American, including the right to serve our country in the U.S. military.' Morell also recognized Manning's right 'to publicly discuss the circumstances that surrounded her crimes as well as the IOP's right to invite whomever they believe will further the education of Harvard's student body.'

"On Thursday night, CIA director Mike Pompeo, who has a law degree from Harvard, announced he would not speak at that night's forum, stating that 'after much deliberation in the wake of Harvard's announcement of American traitor Chelsea Manning as a Visiting Fellow at the Institute of Politics, my conscience and duty to the men and women of the Central Intelligence Agency will not permit me to betray their trust by appearing to support Harvard's decision with my appearance at tonight's event.'

"His statement went on to say that his decision 'has nothing to do with Ms. Manning's identity as a transgender person. It has everything to do with her identity as a traitor to the United States of America and my loyalty to the officers of the CIA.'

"Pompeo's letter concluded saying, 'I applaud the decision of Michael Morell, a past and dedicated servant of the same agency that I now lead, to resign as a result of Harvard's decision. I am saddened, however, at Harvard's loss. You have traded a respected individual who served his country with dignity for one who served it with disgrace and who violated the warrior ethos she promised to uphold when she voluntarily chose to join the United States Army.'

"Manning was released from a military prison in Kansas in May. She has since written columns for The New York Times, advocated for transgender rights, and become an avid Twitter user."

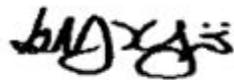

[Dr. Chaps' comment: Manning is a traitor to his country, having endangered national security, and I'm amazed by Pompeo and Morell's courage to make a statement.]
